

EROAD IDLE REPORT

EROAD Idle Report improves fuel economy and reduces engine wear and tear by displaying average and total idle time by vehicle. The costs saved by monitoring idle events and tracking behavior over time will deliver significant improvements to your bottom line.

Switch off and save

You can achieve major cost savings from operating vehicles more efficiently by managing idle times. Lower idle times save fuel and money, and reduce emissions, engine wear and maintenance costs.

EROAD's user-friendly tools and reports help you identify key trends, exceptions and unusual idle behavior. With greater transparency and understanding, you can implement changes to drive better productivity across your fleet.

KEY BENEFITS

Reduce fuel and maintenance costs

By minimizing idling you can make significant savings on your fuel bill and the costs of engine wear and tear, to improve profitability

Lower emissions Minimize the environmental impact of damaging emissions, reduce noise and meet legal restrictions

Improve driving Identify vehicles and drivers with high rates of idling events for support with education programs

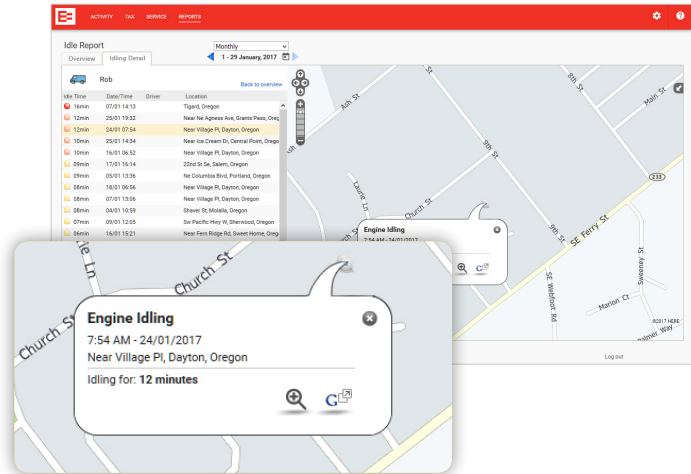

Increase productivity Drill down to understand specific idle events and identify the potential for interventions such as heaters, diesel-powered generators or accommodation policies to support drivers in safely reducing unproductive idling

"Once we had a chance to play with it we discovered high idling and were able to identify the times and behavior of our drivers. We have eliminated excessive idle time in the morning and got the trucks on the road faster, saving us fuel, loss of productivity and wasted man hours."
